NO. 45

DUMBARTON HIGHWAY BRIDGE

At a meeting of the Downtown Association, held in the St. Francis Hotel this week, it was decided to hold a Dumbarton Highway luncheon at the St. Francis Hotel on Wednesday noon, November 15, 1916. W. J. Martin, chairman of the Dumbarton Highway Commission, presented to the association the important features pertaining to this project.

The business men of San Francisco very quickly recognized the magnitude of this undertaking and its importance to the business development of San Francisco.

By setting a date as above devoted specially to the discussion of this matter and by inviting to participate in this discussion the mayor and supervisors of San Francisco and representatives from the leading business and governing organizations of both San Francisco and San Mateo counties, it is hoped to perfect a ways and means commission which will perfectly represent the entire district affected by this project.

It is plain to be seen that a commission which is positively and completely a representative one will command an influence which cannot be ignored.

Inasmuch as this project may have to deal with United States government authorities, railroads, state highway commission and our state legislature, the necessity of a complete and representative organization is apparent.

REGGIE MYLES BADLY INJURED AT STEEL WORKS

Reggie Myles, son of J. C. Myles and one of the best-known and well-liked young men of South San Francisco, suffered a terrible injury while at work at the steel mills Wednesday. Young Myles with others was working on the nine-inch rolling mill, one of the several similar mills for rolling the steel direct from the furnaces into different shapes and lengths. They were changing the rolls preparatory to rolling a different shape of steel. Myles, in stooping over, let his trousers at the ankle too near the feed roller and his leg was caught in the device for rolling the steel. Before the machinery could be stopped his leg had been terribly mangled. The boy was rushed to the local hospital, where it was found that amputation above the knee was necessary. The entire community joins in expressing sympathy to the stricken youth.

REDWOOD DISTRICT

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

Attraction at the Royal Theatre

Coming to the Royal Theatre on Thursday, November 9th, as a Pallas pictures offering on the Paramount program is "The Call of the Cumberlands," from the popular book of that name by Charles Neville Buck. It tells an elaborate detail of pictorial and dramatic event the story of the feudal activities of two factions in Kentucky, involving stirring events of traditional import, which find their end in the slaying of human beings. Spectacular in this regard and remarkably beautiful in natural scenic equipment, the production stands out as one of exceptional merit.

"The Call of the Cumberlands" affords Dustin Farnum, the idol of photoplay fans, opportunity again to score. Mr. Farnum appears as the star of the production in the role of Samson South, in his youth destined to be the leader of the clan of the Souths and in later years their chief-tain who leads them to a victory that relegates hatred and insures safety of life. As Samson South Mr. Farnum is credited with achieving one of the greatest triumphs of his career as a screen artist. Don't fail to read the special Dustin Farnum autographed edition of the book.

The Story "The Call of the Cumberlands."

Torn between a love for his mountain home and a mountain girl and a desire to work out a God-given talent with paint and canvas, Samson South, fighter and dreamer and a coming leader of the clans of the Souths, whose feudal activities with the Hollman faction in the Cumberland mountains have been halted by a truce, leaves for New York. Reluctantly he parts with Sally Miller, the sweetheart of his youth, and sighs at the prospect of lost association with nature's charms.

At the zenith of his success, his crude ways fading under the polish of etiquette taught him by the beautiful sister of his artist-benefactor, who discovered him in the mountains, he is prompted to return because of the breaking out of hostilities anew. First avenging his father's earlier death, Samson South leads his clan in a desperate battle with the Hollman faction, liberating four of the Souths from jail and finally forcing the enemy to ask for permanent peace.

Sally Miller improves the time of South's absence to add to her meager education with books, and she, taking inspiration from fashion magazines, improves as best she can her personal appearance. The absence of South has built a bridge of doubt as to whether his love for her has faded or his heart yielded to the pulchritude of the polished city girl. With Sally Miller again in his arms, doubt is dispelled and Samson finds his soul in the grip of a strong, heroic love and his yearning for the mountain fastness appeased.

Talks on Thrift

(Savings Bank Centennial, 1916.)

The Champion Saver.

To be singled out of a thousand people presenting a plan of life that best evidences the habit of thrift as applied to good living, and awarded the first prize of $50, is a worthy honor to be coveted by any man. This happy experience has recently befallen the Rev. W. C. Poole of Ocean City, Md., to whom the award was made by a committee of prominent bankers and business men, in a thrift contest conducted by the New York Evening World.

Mr. Poole's salary for the past sixteen years has averaged but $733.18 aside from house rent and donations. This is about $15 a week. He has saved $2000, visited two expositions, traveled throughout New England by trolley, bought books and magazines and given to church and charity.

Mr. Poole never buys on credit. He says he has saved $50 a year by buying for cash and $150 on things he didn't buy, because he couldn't pay cash. He has kept strict account of all expenditures and each year he has tried to do better with the same money.

He started thriftward by saving a dollar a week and has steadily kept it up. He appropriates 10 per cent for church and charity and 10 per cent for the savings bank. In his letter he says:

"I have never spent a dollar for tobacco, drink, theatres, movies or so-called fashionable dress, but have met the requirements of a minister in all grades of financial and social church life. When I cannot get what makes me glad I am glad of what I get—or try to be. I have more to be glad of and less to be sad of than any one I know. I have not found any one with a better financial system although I have sought for such. The above system was largely inspired by reading the autobiography, when I was a boy, of Benjamin Franklin. The reading of this book should be required of all Americans before they are allowed to vote."

It would seem impossible on so small a salary to live decently and save money, yet Mr. Poole has done it. He has kept at his plan and has succeeded, as can every one who makes up his mind to save money and adopts a definite method. His two rules, "Never buy on credit and save something every week," are sensible and sure to accomplish wonders if consistently followed. They are worth trying out.

UNITED STATES PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.

A recent investigation made by the United States public health service in connection with studies of rural school children showed that 49.3 per cent had defective teeth, 21.1 per cent had two or more missing teeth, and only 16.9 per cent had had dental attention. Over 14 per cent never used a toothbrush, 58.2 per cent used one occasionally and only 27.4 per cent used one daily. Defective teeth reduce physical efficiency. Dirty, suppurating, snaggle-toothed mouths are responsible for many cases of heart disease, rheumatism and other chronic affections. The children are not responsible for the neglected state of their teeth. The ignorant and careless parent is to blame for this condition—a condition which hampers mental and physical growth and puts a permanent handicap on our future citizens. School teachers can and are doing much in inculcating habits of personal cleanliness on the rural school child, but this will fail of the highest accomplishment unless parents co-operate heartily and continuously. This is a duty which we owe our children.

WAXED SILKS.

Waxed silks, voiles and wool and mohair mixtures are the craze now in Paris, which is quite mad over these new "tissus cires." Callot and Cheruit especially have taken up these waxed fabrics, and, in addition to the stiffness of the material, there are facings of stiffening under hems and peplums Paris fashions enormously these days. Drecoll being the only house that does not emphasize crinoline effects. Premet is exploiting flare effects extravagantly. Not only are the Premet frocks stiffened at the hem and at the hip, but broad sashes are lined with resilient fabric and boned at the ends, so that they stand out from the skirts. All bodies are snug fitting, and bones are introduced at the waist line to give the trim waist effect that accords best with a widely flaring skirt.

A Game of Catch.

Somebody once twitted John Graham on the way David Dudley Field and he were drifting apart, he remaining in the harness as a criminal lawyer, while Field was selected by his state for the duty of codifying her laws.

"It is simply a game of catch between Field and myself," he answered. "He tries to put up as many bars as possible, all uniformly strong. Then I go around and try them and see how many weak ones I can find."

"Which beats, Mr. Graham?" he was asked.

"Oh, I think I do in the long run," he responded. "Field never succeeded in keeping me out as many times as I have succeeded in breaking in."

CONGRESSMAN E. A. HAYES.

Congressman E. A. Hayes, whose careful attention to the needs of his district and his constituents resulted in his being indorsed by both the republicans and democrats, has practically no opposition.

The people of this district are proud to call Mr. Hayes their fellow-citizen and proud of his clean legislative record. As a mark of their approval he will be given a handsome majority next Tuesday.

ANGER.

Ever stop to consider how foolish is anger—how useless?

Not only this, but anger weakens and unnerves and renders us unfit for battle, be that battle of the brain or the brawn.

Ever watch two professionals spar? See the clean-cut exhibition of skill and science as each receives and returns blow for blow. But wait till ones becomes angry. Gone is all that fine science and in its place is the brute lust of battle. Now see how terribly unprepared is the angry man to stand before his smiling adversary. Passion driven and furious, he is an easy mark, and his defeat is foretold from the beginning. Again and again the scientific blows of his cool and quiet opponent beat down his guard and are driven to vital parts of his person, and blind with passion he is powerless for defense, to say nothing of offense.

And as in the sparring ring, so in the larger circles of life. The man who can with a smiling face and stout heart meet the blows of life is armed for the fray and victory is his. The shafts of opposition, of envy, of malice, of hatred, roll from him as the water from the back of a duck. He is impervious to attack. He is unconquerable.

Does your temper give way under the annoyances and vexations of life? Then stop—back up—get a fresh grip on yourself.

Remember, anger never conquers any but the heart that harbors it. Smile.

JOHN D. WILLARD ANNOUNCES HIS PLATFORM

To my fellow citizens:

In this campaign I am a republican and am so registered, and I ran on the republican ticket only for the republican nomination for assemblyman. The republican party nominated me over two opponents as a republican for the assembly. I am running now as a republican and as the nominee of the republican party for that office.

When elected to the assembly it will be as a republican and I will, in proper party matters, align myself with the republicans in the assembly and not with the democrats.

I am the man you know where to find and my conduct proves that I stay by my principles and my party. I stand now and always will for the preservation and improvement (and not for the repeal) of the great republican laws placed upon our statute books in the past years by the republican governors with the aid of the republican legislatures of this state.

I refer to the railroad commission act, the blue sky law, the workman's compensation law, the eight hours for wage-working women law, the child labor law and other beneficial legislation which has made California the banner state of our union in such matters.

I stand for equal rights for all before the law and in our social, economic and industrial and political relations without regard to race, creed or party.

I will always stand for the rule of the people and for that which is for the greatest good of the greatest number, which is the essence of Americanism.

I shall strenuously oppose the passage of any legislation touching annexation which does not guarantee that the people of San Mateo county alone shall decide for themselves whether or not they may in the future desire to consolidate with San Francisco, and any such legislation must also properly guarantee their rights to them.

As a lawyer of experience, I say to you that a wrong word or a word too much here or too little there, or an innocent looking "joker" somewhere else in a proposed law, will ruin the benefits of the law if passed, when the lawyer-judges, to-wit, our courts, pick the law to pieces.

The most recent example of this is the direct primary law, under which my present democratic opponent could not run against me.

However, the supreme court, just as suggested, declared recently that against its desire, as it believed in party loyalty, it was compelled to hold that provision of the law null and void because of the legal insufficiency and the uncertainty of its language.

By that decision I now have an opponent against me when the direct primary law as intended and passed by the legislature, declared that a republican who lost his own party nomination could not run on any other ticket.

If elected I will work for the passage of all beneficial laws in such shape and form that the lawyers on the bench will allow them to stand as they are written and so that they will not be as mushrooms necessarily to be kicked to pieces by the courts.

If elected I will listen to and consult the wishes of the people, and I will serve them and them alone with all the power and energy I possess.

Sincerely,

JOHN D. WILLARD.

Republican Nominee for the Assembly. Advt.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(Communitated.)

The Halloween party given by the local high school last Friday night was attended by a large number of pupils in masquerade. Games were played and refreshments served. All enjoyed it as all our parties are.

At a meeting held by the San Mateo and Santa Clara interscholastic league last Saturday, our representative entered our local high school in the baseball league. Considering the results of last year, the school expects to come out with a few points in its favor.

At a special meeting held by the girls last Tuesday it was decided that the basketball game which was to be played to-day with the Girls' High of San Francisco be postponed until next Saturday on account of some unforeseen circumstances.

Yesterday the freshmen had the superiority over the sophomores, when to the surprise and admiration of the higher classmen they brought forward a paper, entitled "The Freshmen's News." The paper is composed of various departments, under the auspices of a chief editor. Members of the class acted as reporters, and the sophomores cannot but admire the spirit of their relentless foe. The sophomores, if they are to maintain their dignity as the superior beings of the high school, will have to get busy and remind the freshmen of their insignificant position.

Last night the girls were entertained by Miss Rue R. Clifford at her residence on Miller avenue. Supper was served, and after having had a good time the girls retired at an early hour.

The usual basketball game between the first and second teams was played this week. On the girls' side the first team came off victorious, but on the boys' side, the first team was rather stupefied when, on Thursday afternoon, after an exciting game, they were beaten by the second team with a score of 19 to 17.

This humiliation served as a stimulant to the first team, and their revenge was complete when at another game played yesterday they beat the second team with a score of 29 to 2. The reasons for their former defeat was the absence of Joe Mahoney, star forward of the first team, and the center, Ralph Woodman.

Persian Words in English.

Regarding the Persian language, we all have a few words from that source in our vocabularies, although we may not be aware of our indebtedness. There are about a dozen words in the English dictionary which trace to Persia, the most common being perhaps "orange," although this was thought by some to be derived from the Latin "aurum" (gold). "Sash," meaning a ribbon or band (the "sash" of a window is the Latin "capsa"). "shawl" and "taffeta" are other Persian words which have become thoroughly acclimatized, as have "chess," "caravan," "lilac," "dervish" and "luc," while "emerald" and "indigo," "azure," "bazaar," "jackal," "musk," "paradise" and "scimitar" have also been traced to the same source.—London Opinion.

Sympathy With Nature.

'Tis an evidence of how directly we are related to nature that we more or less sympathize with the weather and take on the color of the day. Goethe said he worked easiest on a high barometer. One is like a chimney that draws well some days and won't draw at all on others, and the secret is mainly in the condition of the atmosphere. Anything positive and decided with the weather is a good omen. A pouring rain may be more auspicious than a sleeping sunshine. When the stove draws well the fogs and fumes will leave your mind.—John Burroughs.

Teeth as Sentinels.

"When thou sittest to eat with a ruler consider diligently him that is before thee," says the Hebrew proverb, warning a king's guest to regulate his appetite by his host's temper. Boswell, Dr. Johnson's biographer, gives in his notebook a modern paraphrase of the old Jewish proverb: "I said of a rich man who entertained us luxuriously that, although he was exceedingly ridiculous, we restrained ourselves from talking of him as we might do lest we should lose his feasts. 'He makes our teeth sentinels on our tongues,' said I."

Mr. Wilson says his mind is progressive, but those who try to follow its progress can never tell the direction it is taking. It is just as likely to be progressing backward as forward.

Origin of Felt.

Many centuries ago a poor monk was compelled to travel upon a long and arduous journey. His road was rocky, his sandals were worn, and he suffered agonies as he trudged grimly upon his holy errand. One day as he sat by the wayside resting a sheep came up to him, bleating in the most friendly fashion. The good monk petted the sheep and was grateful for its dumb friendliness, when suddenly he had an inspiration. He took out his sheath knife, sheared two handfuls of wool from the sheep and placed one in the heel of either sandal. That afternoon as he trudged along his feet seemed light, his step springy. The wool took the jar from his spine, the impact of the stony road from his aching, swollen feet.

The next morning as he started out he thought to rearrange the wool padding and discovered that the friction and the movement of his feet in the sandals had reduced the wool to a sort of a cloth. Thus was discovered felt, which to this day is one of the most effective substances ever discovered for padding purposes.

How Saccharin Was Discovered.

Saccharin is the most valuable substitute for sugar we know. Yet it, like many other present day inventions, had a rather unlikely beginning. It can be taken with impunity by diabetic patients, to whom ordinary sugar is death, and it is many times sweeter than that commodity. And, strangely enough, it has only been known to science since 1887.

That year Dr. Fahlberg was employed upon the all important subject of coal tar derivatives at the Johns Hopkins university. Sitting one evening at tea, he was surprised to find how sweet his bread and butter tasted. He traced the sweetness to his fingers, then to his coat sleeves and finally to one of the bowls of derivatives in his laboratory. Experiments upon himself and animals proved alike the harmlessness of the compound and its extreme sweetness. And saccharin was "discovered."—Exchange.

Marines and Their Fingers.

Men with long, tapering "piano" fingers are apt to desert after short service, while those having stubby digits, denoting stability of character and utter lack of the artistic temperament, usually stand by their oaths and make the best marines, according to finger print experts at headquarters of the United States marine corps. Although desertions from the corps are light at all times, it has been found that actors, sign writers and, strange to say, waiters furnish the largest number of deserters. Records, including finger prints, of all men enlisted in the marine corps are kept at headquarters for purposes of identification, and there are cases on record where bodies with finger tips intact have been positively identified through the finger print medium.

FRATERNAL ORDERS

I. O. R. M.

(By George W. Hagedorn.)

The month of October proved a successful ending in new business for Tippecanoe Tribe, No. 111. The new palefaces initiated were of the best of the young blood of our thriving city. Hustling and boosting has been the keynote of success by the members.

The social calendar is being prepared and lots of good times are in store for the members and their friends. An olden-time Thanksgiving whist party, where big American birds will be the prizes, will make the players sharpen their wits to bring home the turkey.

The big Christmas tree for all the children of South San Francisco will take place on the evening of the 28th of December.

The big fourteenth annual ball to-night in Metropolitan Hall promises to eclipse all future, past and present events. Everything toward having a good time has been arranged and a good time is assured all.

Joy is the mainspring in the whole round of everlasting nature. Joy moves the wheels of the great time-piece of the world; she it is that loosens flowers from their beds, suns from their firmaments, rolling spheres in distant space, seen not by the glass of the astronomer.

Degree of Pocahontas.

The great Pocahontas of the great council of California, Mae C. Lippert, together with the great council degree team, will institute the new council in South San Francisco in the near future.

The membership is slowly but surely taking the upward step to success, and we can soon show to the fraternal world that the Degree of Pocahontas is a moing light that will soon be a blazing beacon that is here to stay and do its share toward uplifting and administering aid to those in need and want. The sick benefits attached to this society are excellent and the social features are such as to make any order proud. American mothers, sisters and daughters are invited to join this noble fraternal society; it is good enough for all and nobody is too good for it.

It is no way conflicts with any religious or political belief.

I believe in the proverb that any society is better than no society because every woman, and man's conception of goodness and duty is an advance of their character, and when this conception is embodied in an object of fraternalism it becomes an elevating power upon life that makes one capable of a certain degree of civilization.

Brotherhood of American Yeomen.

To-night, the 4th of November, adds another page to the history of Yeomanship in San Mateo county. A charter list of eighty-five will be instituted at Daly City. This is the youngest homestead in California and promises to be a large and successful lodge. As in other homesteads, great care in the selection of the members has gained a select membership that is an honor to the fraternal world.

Yeomen from San Bruno, South San Francisco and San Francisco will participate. The famous Homestead San Francisco ladies' degree team will perform the ceremonies. State officials will be present and a splendid time is assured.

The object of Yeomanry is to inculcate faith, hope and charity among humanity and a dis federation the members of which are allied together for the good of mankind.

"Of all the gifts which heaven bestows

There is one above all measure;
And that's a friend, 'midst all our woes

A friend is found a treasure."

SUMMER HOME
SOUVENIR OF EXPOSITION

F. L. EKSWARD
FOR THE ASSEMBLY

Before casting their ballots for assemblyman next Tuesday, every man and woman in South San Francisco should carefully consider the qualifications of the two candidates whose names will appear on the ticket and ask themselves this question:

Which of these candidates has shown by his past record and his past achievements that he is most familiar with existing conditions in San Mateo county and is best fitted to represent this county in the state assembly?

If the facts are carefully weighed and considered, there can be only one answer to that question—Frank L. Eksward.

For a number of years past Frank L. Eksward has been devoting all of his time and energies to the development of San Mateo county, and now the time has come when the county can take advantage of that experience by sending him to the assembly.

In the fight for good roads and in the fight for lower commutation rates—a fight which resulted in a saving of thousands of dollars to the commuters of this and other communities on the Peninsula—Eksward took a leading part. He had some hard jobs on his hands, but in every instance he achieved results which were a credit to himself and to the county.

Not only should the people vote for Eksward because he has shown himself to be honest, capable, progressive and loyal, but they should vote for him also as a reward for meritorious service in the county's behalf.

An intimate knowledge of the needs and wants of the county, an enviable reputation for ability and integrity, a keen perception of public demands and forcefulness of character are some of the attributes which make Eksward the logical man to represent us in the assembly.

Not one single objection has been raised to Eksward's candidacy and indications are that he will be elected next Tuesday by a big majority.—Adv't.

FLOATING "CORPSE" PROVES TO BE DIVING SUIT

After attempting to recover from the surf at Halfmoon Bay last Sunday afternoon what was believed to be a human body, the beach next morning revealed to be merely a bathing suit. It was left high and dry on the sands by the receding tide. Much excitement on the coastside was caused by the supposed "corpse."

ST. PAUL'S M. E. CHURCH.

Church Notes.

The Bible lesson last Sunday evening was called "The Feast of the Antediluvians." This was only a novel way of grouping those whose names are recorded as having lived before the flood. A diagram representing a table was presented at which all were seated. Adam and Eve are at the head of the table. Seth and his descendants occupy one side. Noah is placed at the foot of the table. Cain and his descendants are arranged opposite and Naamah is with Noah at the foot of the table. Thus we find two at the head, two at the foot and eleven on each side. Eve, Naamah of Cain's line were married women and are written in different colors from the others. A cross or some mark to draw attention is placed opposite Adam, the first man; Enoch, translated; Methuselah, the oldest; Noah, builder of the ark; Eve, the first woman; Cain, a murderer; Lamech of Cain's line, a murderer and a bigamist; Jabal, first herdsman; Jubal, maker of the instruments of music, and Tubal Cain, the smith. Tradition declares that Noah of Seth's line and Naamah of Cain's line were married and that the two branches that sprang from Adam were united in the family that took passage in the ark.

This lesson is a good example in which the eye aids the ear in making Bible study easy.

The next lesson is "The Flood," Sunday evening, at 6:45 o'clock.

HOW THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION HAS PENALIZED PATRIOTISM.

"Having in view the possibility of further aggression upon the territory of the United States from Mexico and the necessity for the proper protection of that frontier," President Wilson on June 18 called out the mobile arms of the national guard for federal service. He did not call them out at their existing peace strength, but at war strength, which is practically double. Lacking a system of reserves, the national guard organizations immediately had to start a campaign of recruiting to bring about the desired increase in their numbers.

Patriotic young citizens under the urge of the cry, "Your country needs you!" volunteered for service in gratifying numbers. According to Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, the result is that about 135,000 citizen soldiers have been mustered into the federal service and are now on the Mexican border or in camp in their home states. There may be more, but the administration refuses to make known the exact figures.

The movement is costing the public treasury many millions of dollars; it is costing the individual citizen soldiers many millions more. They went to the front believing the cry, "Your country needs you," for war service. They sacrificed advancement in their civil occupations, severed home ties, suffered in thousands of instances great financial loss. The less patriotic, who did not believe the cry or, believing, declined to make sacrifices, fatten at home on these losses.

The real purposes of the call are slowly developing. They are two in number:

First.—A patrol of the border to do the work which President Wilson's friend, Carranza, finds it impossible to do. Because the recognized government in Mexico is too ineffective to keep its own citizens in check and prevent them murdering Americans on American soil the American government undertakes the costly task of doing that work for them. The murder of American citizens on Mexican soil is another matter. Carranza may go as far as he likes in that direction.

Second.—A purpose of the mobilization on the border and in the camps is to train citizens to perform effective military service. The regular military establishment of the nation is manifestly too small for the actual military needs. To this extent the cry, "Your country needs you," was correct.

But these facts were not made clear when the call was issued. The idea was promulgated that men were needed for actual war service, not for military training. Deceit was practiced.

Opposing in the open legislation for universal military service, the administration by its acts has established what in essence is a system of compulsory military service. It is a system all the more vicious because it operates only against the patriotic, whereas a legalized universal training system equalizes the burden of military service among all men and all classes of men.

When in 1914 Europe plunged into the greatest war of all history and conditions in Mexico grew intolerable intelligent men realized the fact that it was incumbent on this nation to build up its tiny regular army and put its other military resources in condition for use. National safety demanded this. And yet in December of that year, four months after the European war began, President Wilson went before congress and declared that all agitation for military preparedness was hysterical; that we were adequately prepared.

After awhile the administration changed its mind and professed to believe in the necessity for preparedness. First came an enactment to increase the regular army by 20,000. But the body of the country, and even all parts of the Democratic administration, could not change front so quickly as the head. Recruiting for the regular army lagged. Not yet have the 20,000 been secured.

The need pressed. A new national defense act, providing for still more men in the regular army, was enacted. But still the men were not forthcoming.

Suddenly and without warning the administration issued its call for mobilization of the citizen soldiers. It seemed still obsessed with the Bryan notion that an army could be created by presidential ukase.

When the call went out the government did not own enough uniforms, shoes, socks, blankets, hats, wagons, trucks, horses, mules and other things essential to equip the men called. It had made no provision for transporting the troops called to the points where they were required.

Who suffered most by this amazing lack of foresight, this leaping before looking?

Only the 135,000 patriots who believed that their country needed them for national defense; only the men who are making the great sacrifices.

The whole disgraceful story may be summed up in the phrase, the administration has penalized patriotism.

True, it is accumulating by subterfuge a reserve of trained soldiers, but events have demonstrated that it cried "wolf" when there was no wolf. Should it be forced to cry "wolf" again, when the wolf is at the door, what will be the result?

The president had boldly signed the Pork river and harbor bill, and his facile pen is dripping with ink eager to attach itself to a pork public buildings bill.

The friendliest apologists of the president's part in the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation have nothing better to say for him than that it is hardly fair to expect a man to say "I forbidd" in his presidential year when he is a candidate.

The foregoing words describing the profligate waste of the people's money with executive approval are taken without change from a plank of the platform on which Woodrow Wilson was elected in 1912:

"We denounce the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toll. We demand a return so that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government."

How much is now left of the principles declared and the promises registered at Baltimore as inducements to citizens to vote for Wilson.

Possibly it is because he and his party have been such reckless, such wholesale repudiators of the pledges of 1912 that few people remember or care to remember what pledges were made in his behalf about forty days ago at St. Louis.—New York Sun.

FAMILIES SPLIT ON CAMPAIGN

Wives of Wilson Supporters Will Take Stump For Governor Hughes.

DIVERTING CAMPAIGN PHASE.

Washington.—Families are being divided by the present political issues. Here are a few examples: J. A. H. Hopkins of New Jersey is treasurer of the Progressive (genuine) national committee and has announced that he personally favors the re-election of Wilson. Mrs. Hopkins is a member of the Woman's party and will take the stump and do all she can to prevent the election of Wilson.

Gifford Pinchot is for Hughes and all the militarism Hughes and his backing can secure. Amos Pinchot, his brother, is a member of the American Union Against Militarism and will support Wilson as the lesser of two evils. Representative William Kent of California is a wild eyed enthusiast for Wilson and is heading a Wilson non-partisan league, while Mrs. Kent is a member of the woman's party and will stump for the defeat of Wilson.

George Middleton has allied himself with the group of writers who have announced themselves for Wilson, while his wife, Fola La Follette, is one of the members of the Congressional union who will hold Wilson responsible for the defeat of the Susan-B. Anthony amendment. Meredith Nicholson is a Wilson supporter, but Mrs. Nicholson will write and stump against Wilson on account of his attitude toward the federal suffrage amendment. Mrs. Louis F. Post is a member of the Woman's Peace party and an ardent Tolstoyan pacifist. Louis F. Post, assistant secretary of labor, is for the administration's "reasonable" program of preparedness.

The Organ.

The German peasants in the Harz mountains teach their birds to sing by a unique instrument known as a bird organ. It consists of two round sheet iron cylinders, one inside of the other. The lower one contains water. The upper one is manipulated by a series of small weights and pulleys, which cause it to settle slowly downward, the air being expelled through a whistle, which has several modifiers to give variety to its tones. When the upper cylinder has come down the required distance a spring operates the weights that raise it again to repeat the sound.

The virtue of justice consists in moderation as regulated by wisdom.—Aristotle.

Be Sure You Know What You Are Voting For

Prohibitionists have forced Two Measures on the Ballot at the November Election

The first measure (Proposition No. 1 on the ballot) is frankly a prohibition measure. Knowing that the voters of the State would not deliberately confiscate the great vineyards, the breweries and other important industries which prohibition would destroy, they have sought to accomplish the same result through a subterfuge. So they have also placed on the ballot Proposition No. 2, which has been widely advertised as an ANTI-SALOON MEASURE. If you have been told that Proposition No. 2 is a measure which affects only the saloons, read the other things it also does:

This so-called Anti-Saloon measure would make it a crime to serve a wine punch at a public reception.

Would prohibit the serving of wine at a public dinner or banquet.

Would confiscate the wine cellars and close the bars of every club in the state.

Would make every hotel proprietor subject to arrest if one of his guests carried the customary flask to the hotel room.

Would make it impossible for visitors or tourists to get a glass of wine anywhere in California.

Would prevent a Californian having a glass of wine or beer with his meals the moment he left home.

Would absolutely prohibit the serving of any stimulants with meals at hotels or restaurants and provide severe penalties to be imposed on the hotel or restaurant and proprietor for violation, even if done without his knowledge or consent.

It would go even further and prevent any hotel or restaurant chef from using wine, brandy or beer in preparing gravies, rarebits or other special dishes.

This so-called Anti-Saloon measure would even prevent any bakery from using brandy in mince pies or plum puddings, and would make this practically impossible even if the dishes were prepared at home.

It would prevent the sale of wine or beer by the gallon, bottle (or in any quantity), by grocery or other stores.

Would make it impossible for anyone enjoying a vacation at a summer resort to secure a glass of wine or beer at meals.

Would eliminate every branch or agency of a winery or brewery in California.

Would prohibit the soliciting of orders away from the place of manufacture and would eliminate traveling salesmen.

Would discourage the manufacture of the finest grades of wine, because they are aged in bottle and sold principally in the hotels, restaurants and clubs of California.

Can you see any REAL difference between the two measures?
Nos. 1 and 2 are Both Prohibition Amendments.

The principal difference is that No. 1 goes into effect at the end of 1919, and No. 2 goes into effect two years earlier. They would be equally disastrous to the vineyards, the breweries and all the other industries which prohibition is seeking to destroy.

Vote NO Against
Amendments No. 1 and 2

Coney Island's Start.

The first man to realize the great possibilities of Coney Island as a summer resort was Austin Corbin, a banker and railway official. From the beginning of the last century the beach at Coney Island was frequented by many New Yorkers, but it remained for Corbin to initiate the movement which has made "Coney" a synonym for a certain kind of amusement. Corbin started his financial career at Day-enport, Ia., but in 1865 he opened a banking house in New York, and in 1873 he purchased the eastern part of Coney Island. There he created the great resort known as Manhattan Beach. He also became president of the Long Island railroad and played a big part in the development of all the summer resorts on Long Island. In the last forty years Coney Island has become the greatest popular summer resort in the world, and in addition to the millions of transient visitors from the city who go there for the day many thousands are regular summer residents of the hotels and cottages which line its shores. — New York World.

Money Mark Twain Refused.

By the time that Mark Twain had finally succeeded in paying off the burden of debt that had fallen upon him with the failure of his publishing venture, he found himself one of the best paid authors in the world. He refused many offers of money that did not agree with his literary conscience. He declined $10,000 for a tobacco indorsement, though he liked the tobacco well enough. He declined $10,000 a year for five years to lend his name as editor to a humorous periodical. He declined another $10,000 for ten lectures and another for fifty lectures at the same rate—that is, $1,000 a night. And he was offered $1 a word for his writing, which he also declined, making a final arrangement with his regular publishers that they should print whatever he wrote, the payment being 20¢ (later 30¢) cents a word. — "Boys' Life of Mark Twain" in St. Nicholas.

Quite Common.

"It's strange what interest small boys and girls take in boasting about the possessions of themselves and their families.

Mollie, aged nine, and Nancy, a year younger, were trying to outmatch each other at this game, and Mollie was several points ahead in the contest.

"Oh, you should see my mother's fan!" she boasted, thinking to make her victory complete. "It's lovely—all hand painted!"

Nancy tossed a scornful head. "Pooh!" she retorted. "That's nothin'. So's our garden fence."

Bold Court Fool.

Ferdinand H. was a man of very uncertain moods and would allow his jester to take liberties with him one hour while resenting any familiarity the next. One day he turned round on Jonas, his favorite fool, and thundered: "Fellow, be silent! I never stoop to talk to a fool!"

"Never mind that," answered Jonas. "I do. So please listen to me in your turn."

To Make Sure.

"Won't you please leave the light burning in the hall, mother?" pleaded little Robert as he was being put to bed.

"Nonsense, Bobbie," was the reply. "Surely you know there isn't anything to be afraid of in the dark."

"Yes, I know, but can't you leave a teeny weeny light so I can see there isn't anything there?"—Exchange.

Bob Burdette's Aside.

When Bob Burdette was addressing the graduating class of a large eastern college for women he began his remarks with the usual salutation, "Young ladies of '97." Then in a hurried aside he added, "That's an awful age for a girl!"

Sooner or later the world comes around to see the truth and do the right. Hilliard.

Psychology of Laughter.

In his book, "A Raw Youth," Dostoevsky has a page on laughter, which he regards as the surest test of the heart, and suggests that a girl may well choose her husband (when in doubt) by the quality of his laugh, which will be a symptom of his nature, for to know how to laugh is a gift. "A man will sometimes give himself away completely by his laugh, and you suddenly know him through and through." Most essential in good laughter is sincerity and freedom from malice. A sincere laugh, free from malice, is gayety.

"A man's gayety is what most betrays the whole man from head to foot. Sometimes one will be for a long time unable to read a character, but if the man begins to laugh his whole character will suddenly lie open before you. And so if you want to see into a man and to understand his soul don't concentrate your attention on the way he talks or is silent, on his tears or the emotion he displays over exalted ideas. You will see through him better when he laughs."

Story of a Faithful Dog.

Animals, and especially dogs, can be most sincere mourners. Near Greyfriars church, Edinburgh, stands the statue of a dog bearing this inscription:

GREYFRIARS BOBBY.

From the life, just before his death.

A TRIBUTE

To the affectionate fidelity of

GREYFRIARS BOBBY.

In 1858 this faithful dog followed the remains of his master to Greyfriars Churchyard, and lingered near the spot until his death in 1872.

Erected by the Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

1872.

Think of it! Fourteen years! In the winter Bobby lay under a flat tombstone for shelter, and he was found dead on his master's grave one morning after having waited patiently for fourteen long years. Surely a remarkable instance of animal fidelity.

Meaning of the Motto.

Young Canfield was a household decorator, and one day he was called to the country home of an eccentric man, father of a large and interesting family of daughters.

One of the daughters acted as his guide through the house that he might give an estimate for decoration. His attention was caught by a motto, framed and prominently displayed over the door of the room of each girl, which read:

"Learn to Say Yes."

"Would you mind," asked the young man, "telling me what that motto means?"

"Oh," exclaimed the young woman, with a blush, "that's one of father's ideas. There are ten of us girls, you know."—National Monthly.

Pressing Invites.

The eastern Caucasian mountaineers never shake hands. When two men greet each other they merely clasp hands, with upstanding thumbs pressed closely together. There is no up and down motion of hands and arms.—George Kennan in Outlook.
